A FREIGHT DECISION.

From the complaint in this case and the secompanying evidence, and the usture of the response made by the company complained of, the facts appear to be as follows: On the lith of April, 1884, there was consigned to complainants at Harper a carload of corn, to be shipped to them at Medicine Lodge, Kan., over the Southern Kansas raliford. The consigner weighed the corn before putting the same into the car, and his second and the control of the corn correction, 20,000 nounds." When the corn reached its destination complainant was charged the recruier rate for the distance between Harper and Medicine Lodge upon a stated weight of 20,000 pounds. In his response to this complainant Mr. S. B. Hynes, the company's general freight agent, saws: "Our instructions to agents are, when billing grain, to use a weight of 20,000 pounds, which is to be corrected to actual weight when such is ascertained. It was formerly our custom to bill all cars at 52,000 pounds, but since the capacity of cars have been increased, it is found that the average weight is 20,000 pounds. The writer solid. An Alleged Rapiet Hanged by a Mob at Hebron, Neb., June 18.—Eli Owens, the rapist, was lynched at three a. m. yesterday morning by a crowd of fifteen masked men from Alexandria, who broke down the cell door with a siedge hammer, threw a rope around the prisoner's neck and dragged him to a wagon. His cries for help were heard throughout the town, but were unheeded for some time. Judge C. L. Richards and W. D. Gaibrich attempted to rescue the prisoner, but retoivers were placed to their heads and they were told if they called for aid they would die. The prisoner was then dragged out. He re sisted strennously and fought like a tiger, and with a knife of some kind he cut one of his assailants on the hand or wrist. Two other prisoners confined in the jail on small charges—Prince and Henry Latteridge—say that the first intimation they had was the appearance of a masked man at the outside window of the cell occupied by them. A gun was thrust through the hars and its owner, in a gruff voice, said: "I want Ell Owens." He was answered that Owens was not in that cell. They say Owens seemed to realize from the first that he was wanted. The wretched man was conveyed to a place about four miles east of Hebron. The sheriff followed the crowd post haste, but through some mistake took the wrong road. It was some time before the track of the lynchers could be discovered. A trail was struck, however, and in about one hour's time from starting the body was discovered swaying to and fro in the cool morning breeze on a tree. The lynchers' work was done, and Owens paid the penaity with his life. The body was still warm when the sheriff cut it down. Several bruises were on the body, showing the prisoner had been maltreated by the crowd before he was hunz. Eli Owens went to the residence of F. Church, near Alexandria, where lida Grin, his sixteen-year-old sister-in-iaw was employed as a domestic, and invited the girl to go riding. The poodle was a present to Mrs. Cleveland from Mr. Von der Bock, the agent of the Red Star Line, and the captain had received special instructions to look out for its safe transportation, along with that of a one hundred-year-old Dutch clock that had been sent as a present to President Cleveland. Mrs. Cleveland, then Miss Folsom, had seen the dog in Antwerp, and had made friends with it. Mr. Von der Bock determined it should be hers. He dodn't think it right to neglect her husband, and sent along the Dutch clock.

A VERSATILE VILLAIN.

A Fellow-Passenger of Brooks From Sam Francisco to Auchtand, Describes the Murderer's Conduct En Route.

NEW YORK, June 17 .- A special cable dispatch to the World, dated London, June 16, has the following: I have seem a private letter from Dublin, in which an Irishman, who was a fellow-passenger with Maxwell from San Francisco Auckland, gives interesting impressions of the murderer. He writes:

Maxwell sat in the City of Sidney apparently as unconcerned as the most innocent. I formed the acquaintance of Maxwell very quickly. Of course no one on board had heard of the murder. Maxwell introduced nimself as a French officer of the guard, calling himself as a French officer of the guard, calling himself as a French officer of the guard, calling himself as a French officer of the guard, calling himself as a french officer of the guard, calling himself as a french officer of the guard, calling himself as a french officer of the guard, calling himself as a french officer of the guard, calling himself as a french was counted to the same of the guard in the himself of the guard of passengers ready to discuss every tople from the cology to war. His manner was that of a Frenchman, bright and quick. He frenchman, bright and quick. He frenchman, bright end quick. He frenchman, bright end of the const of Korth Wales. In two Interviews with Sir Watkin Williams. Wynn and other noted personages he kept his assumed character as a Frenchman all the time. He always snoke in broken English even when in the middle of a heated argument. His views of Heaven were very free. He cave much offense to a lot of Baptists and Presbyterians from Canada. Two members of the Salvation Army attacked him with their tracts. He replied by offering them some of Voltaire's works. He was rather free with his money and bought a lot of curiodites at Honoluty. of the murderer. He writes:

THE WOUNDED POLICE.

The Terrible Effects of the Bomb Thrown Among the Chicago Police at the Hay-market Riot.

CHICAGO, June 17 .- Only eighteen of the sixty-seven police officers wounded at the Haymarket riot have returned toduty, seven men have died, four are in a critical condition, and two of these wil. probably die; twelve others are unable to leave their beds, and forty-two in of the wounded have flost a leg each, another several toes, and a third had his jaw fractured. Lieutenant Stanton, who was wounded in eighteen places, and quite a number of others who are able to travel, have left the city and paces, and quite a number of others who are able to travel, have left the city and are seeking health in different parts of the country.

It has been a subject of much remark that the wounds have been exceedingly slow in healing, and it is generally believed that those who were struck by the shell were more or less poisoned. Even those who received slight injuries and have returned to duty, carry a lame leg, or a bandaged hand or some other memento of the occasion, which clings persistently to them. This is particularly the case with Officer Frank Murphy, who received a very slight wound in the hand from a piece of the shell. It has never healed. Yesterday be went to the hospital to receive treatment, as serious fears are entertained that blood-poisoning will set in.

TREASURE TROVE.

an Exemptor Discovers a Pot of Gold and Silver Colo Eight Feet Below the Surface —Others Claim the Treasure, But the Finder Hold it.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 17.-Peter lumber king, received the contract a year ago to supply Huntingdon with water. Yesterday afternoon his men were excavating at the new reservoir at the head of Fifth street. When at a cepth of about eight feet from the surface J. D. Me-Chain discovered an earthen pot, securely hid, which was filled to the brim with hid, which was filled to the brim with Mexican and American gold and silver coins of ancient date. McClain refuses to make public the amount of money the pot contained, but his friends say it was several thousand dollars.

As soon as the discovery was made known, Mr. Herdie put in a claim for the treasure on the ground that it was found on his property, while McClain insists that it is his under the common law relating to treasure trove. Mrs. Christian Colestock is another claimant. Her deceased husband sold the land to Herdie and the widox affects that the money was buried by Colestock years ago for safe-keeping. All the parties have engaged conusel, and the ownership of the contents of the pot will be tested in the court.

The French Gobbling New Territory.

LONDON, June 17 .- Advices from the British Consulate at Noumea, the capital of the French colony of New Caledonia, state that the military and naval expedition which recently proceeded thence to-to the New Hebrides Islands, hoisted the French flag over them on June 1, and the captain of the French transport. which performed the ceremony ex-changed visits with the commander of a British man-of-war lying in the vicinity. England is engaged in seeking from France a statement as to the truth or falsity of the above report.

The Milwaukee Bomb In

RACINE, Wis., June 18.—Excitement over the attempted murder of ex-Mayor Secor, by the explosion of a dynamito bomb in the road opposite his house, continues at a high pitch. A mask has been found near Mayor Secor's house. John Bamber, the Milwaukee man who was wounded by the explosion, and who is suspected of knowing more about the affair than he is willing to tell, is said to be not seriously wounded. His preliminary examination upon the charge of attempted murder has been set for this morning, but it is understood that he will waive examination and gave bail to appear before the Circuit Court.
